

Ankur Dasgupta is Vice President for India/APJ Marketing & Communications for NTT DATA Services. He leads his team to advance brand awareness and generate demand for the company's comprehensive portfolio of business and IT services, including advanced digital and cloud capabilities. He also is responsible for internal communications, corporate social responsibility (CSR) and partners across the enterprise to enhance team member engagement and position the company as an employer of choice. Ankur also supports shared marketing services for other NTT Corporation companies globally. Ankur brings in over two decades of rich experience in Sales, Marketing and Communications, he has served as visiting industry faculty member at various academic institutions, and actively participates in diverse industry-led think-tank groups and industry speaking engagements.