

Dr. Krishna Mikkilineni is the former Head of Operations, Automation and Engineering as well as CTO of Honeywell Technologies Inc. Prior to that he was the MD of Honeywell India which was established by him 3 decades ago. He was responsible for growing the company from few engineers to an overall headcount of more than 12000 in 20 years.

While at Honeywell he was the member of Executive Management team and President of Honeywell Technology Solutions Worldwide. He was instrumental in leading the global initiatives, establishing global processes and developing competency to successfully initiate and execute global projects for Honeywell.

He did his doctoral studies from University of Florida in Electrical and Computer Engineering.